DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 4, 5 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kunsman '824 in view of Katz '529.

In regard to claim 1, Kunsman discloses an electrofusion joint made of a plastic (see col. 4, line 13) comprising:

a saddle portion 66 to be joined to an outer circumferential surface of a resin pipe;
a spigot 13 projecting from the saddle portion and to which a branch pipe is to be connected; and collar portions 26, 27 formed on both sides of the saddle portion so that a latch of a clamp device can be engaged; wherein a recess (see fig. 3) is formed only on a collar portion 26, 27 side in an entire circumference of a base of the spigot 13.

Kunsman discloses using the collar portions to securely connect the saddle clamp to a pipe, but Kunsman does not disclose using heating wires embedded in the seating surface to connect the clamp to the pipe. Katz teaches using both a clamping device and heating wires embedded in its seating surface so that the fitting can be held in place on a plastic pipe before the fitting is bonded thereto by electrofusion (see col. 6, lines 2-4). Therefore it would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the saddle portion of Kunsman to include heating wires, as taught by Katz, so that the saddle of

Art Unit: 3679

Kunsman could be held in place by both the clamping device and a bond created by the heating wires, thereby making for a more secure connection between the saddle and pipe.

Additionally, Kunsman does not specify that the plastic is a thermoplastic resin, however it would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art to make the plastic disclosed by Kunsman a thermoplastic resin because the selection of a known material based upon its suitability for the intended use is a design consideration within the skill of the art. In re Leshin, 227 F.2d 197, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960).

In regard to claim 4, the joint is a saddle joint.

In regard to claim 5, the joint is a service tee joint.

In regard to claim 6, Kunsman does not disclose the exact wall thickness of the saddle portion. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the wall thickness in a range of 6 to 9 mm because a change in the size of a prior art device is a design consideration within the skill of the art. In re Rose, 220 F.2d 459, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 4, 5 and 8 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
